Instructive Talk Before ConferenceDOYLESTOWN, May 13—Two Bristol physicians took an active part in the Bucks County Welfare Conference held here Monday when the medical problem of the unemployable and mental health in the school and home were discussed at the afternoon meeting.The sessions were held at the Doylestown Country Club with J. Harry Hoffman, county superintendent of schools, as chairman of one of the round-table discussions and Dr. Frank Lehman, Bristol, chairman of another.Dr. Lehman representing the Bucks County Medical Society, said that the society was glad to have its representatives present at the conference."I think it will be generally conceded that physicians as a body have, throughout history, probably given a larger proportion of their time to direct charity than any other single class of workers," Dr. Lehman said in his opening remarks."We are, however, willing to acknowledge that they have not given much consideration to the larger problems of public charity and public welfare. We believe that there are two causes for this condition. In the first place, physicians as a rule have been very busy individuals and the nature of their work made it quite difficult for them to make arrangements to spend time attending meetings, conventions and the like."There has also grown up a tradition that made physicians feel that their charitable work was in individual interest between themselves and their patients and that it was scarcely ethical for them to discuss the subject in a broad, impersonal way. However, the great mass of physicians of today are looking upon the situation from a different angle. They realize that it is their function and their duty to participate in all these studies both because they have to learn in the problems of public charity and because they believe that there are certain phases of the subject concerning which they have a more trained and personal knowledge than any other group of individuals."Dr. Lehman said that it is the belief of the medical profession that changes are an essential part of life and that undoubtedly medical practice and medical procedure must and should within certain limits, march along with the general procession."We are, however," he continued, "very definitely convinced that there are certain principles and practices which bear such a vital relation to the best medical care of the sick that they should be disturbed or altered only after careful and thoughtful consideration and investigation and then only in such a way as to keep intact the highest degree of morale in the medical profession, without which there can be no true and lasting advance in medical procedure.""We must avoid the errors that have occurred in other parts of the world.
In reading over a history of the care of the indigent sick in Pennsylvania, we discover that until quite recently very little provision was made for their medical care outside of hospitals, the county homes and other charitable institutions. Several counties have made altogether inadequate gestures by employing a so-called 'poor doctor.' Recently a number of counties have taken up this subject in a larger way. This will be discussed by another speaker.
Physicians of the past, and the present for that matter, have taken it upon themselves to care for these people without thought of monetary recompense.""With the era of pensions and relief measures of one kind or another there has developed a tendency to shift the responsibility for the care of dependent children, the aged or infirm from relatives to governmental agencies, and with the increasing difficulty for persons past middle life to re-secure employment."

GIVEN CONSIDERATIONBucks County Courts, District

sented at MeetingDISCUSS MERIT SYSTEMDOYLESTOWN, May 13—The courts, including the President Judge of Bucks County, the District Attorney's office and the probation officers, county detective and the sheriff's office were represented at the Bucks County Welfare Conference held here at the Doylestown Country Club on Monday."Usefulness of a candidate in a voting machine is the primary consideration in the appointment to public office and jobs in this country, if one interprets correctly the criticism of public servants which appears in the press," said Mrs. David C. Prince, speaking at the evening session on "The Merit System For Pennsylvania."Mrs. Prince, president of the League of Women Voters of Pennsylvania and a director of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, was the principal speaker at the conference.
She made an eloquent and a very strong plea for the merit system.She pointed out that New York State already has a very successful merit system and advocated the same—civil service for public servants—in Pennsylvania.Mrs. Prince pointed out that eight-teen months before the politics of the State government changed, a committee in 1933 reported to the Legislature that it was in sympathy with furthering the movement for a civil service law in Pennsylvania. She said the Woodward Bill, a scientifically drawn civil service bill, is still in the Legislature. This bill the speaker described, as "very good and still better with a few changes." She said that it is up to the people to decide who the head of the civil service commission shall be.Mrs. Prince said that it is also important to figure out how a civil service system in the State might be of value also to local government.Leon Stern, secretary of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania spoke on "The New Program for Crime Prevention."He said that "crime prevention will only be successful to the degree to which we can reach the individual offender, either after he had committed his offenses or before he had done so.
It is not sufficient to discover the serious offenders and to put them in prison or to exterminate them as is being so successfully done in the case of federal crime, but hand in hand with that must go a program of crime prevention commencing with children in the community and including those adult offenders who can still be adjusted to normal community life.""For that reason, it is just as important to have prison training as it is to have good juvenile courts and good probation. A prevention program, a parole and a juvenile court program all depend upon personnel. This neces-itates good trained personnel, free of political dominance. Parole and care of prisoners in the operation of juvenile courts must not be in the hands of the politicians."Mr. Stern said that it is absolutely necessary in these days "to treat the individual" when dealing in crime prevention. The juvenile court, he said, is to protect children, and not to punish them."In prisons today, in this section of the country surely, we have a modern program, so modern," Stern said, "that some people call it coddling prisoners.
Many prisons have radios in cells, movies and other modern things. That is not coddling. It is the answer to a problem that the warden of a prison of 3,000 men has to meet. It is absolutely essential that every prison have some type of educational program.
There is work for only one half of the prisoners in the state of Pennsylvania.""I want to make it clear that prison labor in this State cannot interfere with industry to any great extent. In Pennsylvania the prison made articles can be sold only to State institutions, and peculiar, though it is a fact, the State employs salesmen to sell her own prison-made goods back to the State.""Every man or woman who goes to prison, unless they are 'lifers,' comes out and it is necessary that they are properly educated and guided.""In the Eastern Penitentiary, under

The overwhelming nature of the preference for Governor Landon for Republican nominee for President shown in the Massachusetts primary, following the extensive writing in of his name in the recent Nebraska primary, strengthens the impression, already clear from polls and straw ballots, that the Kansas Governor has captured the imagination and sympathy of large numbers of Republican voters.That this is in part due to his record as an economizer and tax reducer is undoubtedly true. More significant, we think, is the fact that he appears to embody all those qualities of mind and character which President Roosevelt lacks. He is in a sense the exact antithesis of the great New Dealer. He stands for the traditions and beliefs which Mr. Roosevelt has so lightly discarded, scorned or attacked. He represents the best in the older America, in contrast to the experimentation and inadequacy of the New Deal.The amiable flattery of Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied by his frank disbelief in the ability of the people to look after their own interests, has begun to pall. People are tired of his restlessness and of the fundamental superficiality which underlies his apparent eagerness to try experiments. They have not forgotten—or forgiven—his contemptuous remarks about the Supreme Court and the Constitution. They dislike his sponsorship of government by spite. They resent his injection of partisan politics into everything at the expense of experience and fitness. They are convinced that his policy of reckless extravagance is disastrous.Governor Landon, self-made and largely self-educated, has taken upon himself the task of cherishing the old American heritage. This is clearly the point of view that the Republican candidate should have. Governor Landon is unmistakably a leading contender for the Republican nomination. The Cleveland convention must, of course, make the actual decision. But one thing is clear: The Landon qualities must be present in the candidate chosen.BEST SCHOOL BANDS READY FOR TESTThree-Day Competition Will Start May 14th At ClevelandBEST IN THE COUNTRYBy International News Service
CLEVELAND, O., May 13.—(INS)— With more than 500 members of schoolboy bands in active competition, and with hundreds of others looking on, Cleveland will be turned into a veritable city of music on May 14, 15 and 16 when the National School Band Contest is held in Public Hall here.More than 60 championship bands from coast to coast will participate in the contest, sponsored by the National School Band Association, the National School Orchestra Association and the music department of the Cleveland public schools in co-operation with the Committee on Festivals and Contests of the Music Educators National Conference.The band contests are held biennial-ly, with the orchestra contests being conducted on alternate years.Many of the bands entered in the competition are made up of 90 or more members each, and the total number this year is expected to reach nearly 600. More than 80,000 persons are expected to be in the stadium to witness the colorful marching program on the final day.The competing units are divided into three classes:
Class A schools are those having enrollments of 750 or more pupils; Class B, those having enrollments between 250 and 750; and Class C, those in small towns and villages with less than 250 pupils.The contest is open to those bands which are winners of contests held in every state—bands which placed in Division I in the 1934 national contest; bands which received highest ratings in 1935 state band contests, on the basis of one band for each 20 which competed; band soloists and ensembles receiving highest ratings in state contests in 1936; and orchestra soloists and ensembles winning highest ratings in the 1936 state contests.Bands which Morgan considers as the outstanding contestants this year include those representing the following high schools:
East Waterloo, Ia., Joliet Township, Ill., Elkhart, Ind., Quincy, Ill., Mason City, Ia., Hobart, Ind., Iowa City, Ia., Urbana, Ill., Medford, Okla., Green-has a goal of having 308 boys in Scouting by April 1937. Today, there are 269, a gain of 13 over the 256 reported in February.Reports received by District Commissioner Herbert A. Pettit indicated that Bristol No. 6 (Scoutmaster William B. Lyndall), Andalusia Cub Pack (Cubmaster Joseph Kish), and Edgely (Scoutmaster Ronald Swain) have been making the best progress in advancement. Attendance has been highest with the Bristol No. 2 (Robert cis Home (Scoutmaster Joseph Meehan).

Units with the most complete organization are: Bristol Ship "Elks" (Skipper Fred Herman), St. Francis Home (Scoutmaster Joseph Meehan), and Newportville (Scoutmaster Lewis Minister). Camping records for the visitation period were outstanding in Bristol No. 6 (William B. Lyndall, Scoutmaster), Cornwells (Scoutmaster Robert Gelger), and Newportville (Scoutmaster Lewis Minister). Bristol
No. 1 (Scoutmaster Herbert A. Pettit, Jr.) with Bristol No. 7 (Scoutmaster Leslie Craven) were high scorers in reading program. Close to them was the Bristol Seascout Ship "Elks" (Skipper Fred R. Herman).Merit Badge Commissioners William Taylor, Bristol; and Jess Wendkos, Andalusia, spoke of the reorganization of their Sectional Review Board to meet the need of the increase advancement. Fine reports of progress in Bristol by Neighborhood Commissioner David Neill, and for Cornwellsplaces here in search of illegal alcohol, and report finding three separate containers partly filled with about 16 gallons of alcohol at the residence of John Cordisco, 11 Lincoln avenue. Cordisco was not at home when the officers visited his place. He was arrested later and held in $500 bail for court.One five gallon glass jug was reported found in the cellar by the officers.

The jug was reported found in a hinged cabinet beneath the stairway and the cabinet was filled with tools, back of which was the jug. When the cabinet was touched it swung out, tools, jug and all. The closet was about four feet in height.A five-gallon can was discovered under a rug in a corner of a room on the second floor, it is stated. The rug was rolled up and piled in the corner with the jug beneath it, according to the officers.Then, according to the raiders, a five-gallon container partly filled, was found in a closet in a room on the second floor.Beneath the cellar floor under the kitchen two vats were discovered by the police. These vats were about eight feet square and seven feet high. Some piping had been done, but the vats were not connected or in operation.Republican Women as it captured its fourth consecutive victory last night on Leedom's field.

The Excelsior Colored Club was the losing nine with the final figures being 7-5.The "Saints" rallied in their part of the fifth to come from behind to take over the colored aggregation after the Ringgoldmen had deadlocked the count by tallying two runs in the upper part of the fifth frame. A bad "break" occurred to the ultimate losers in this frame when Davis was injured when he bunted in the tying marker.To open the last half of the fifth, Pieo singled to center for his third straight hit. Tosti bunted but on Bragg's throw to first, Darrah missed the ball and enabled Pieo to reach third. Tosti went to second unmolested. With the count one and one, Why-no bunted down the first base line, scoring Pieo and beating the throw to first. While Bragg was playing for Whyno, Tosti also crossed."Joie" Antonelli who relieved Ralph

"WHOLESALE SUICIDE"

Motor car drivers who find themselves usually held to primary responsibility for highway deaths and injuries to pedestrians will doubtless find consolation in the views of Carl F. Ziegler, who in a recent magazine article contends that pedestrians are responsible for 85 per cent of deaths inflicted by motorists.

He holds that while there are plenty of laws relating to the operation of motor cars, there are few relating to the movements of pedestrians. Doubtless he is right about that. "They can cross the street when they please," he writes, "even if motor traffic has the green light. They can go where they are not looking and engage old friends in conversation in the middle of the street. They can run or walk, jump out and jump back. And they do all these things every day while motorists dodge the dozens and hit one."

Doubtless he is true about that. Every driver will match each tale of the carelessness of the man at the wheel with another concerning the carelessness of the person on foot. And often the man at the wheel is justified in his view that, as Mr. Ziegler puts it, "when pedestrians are killed it's not murder, but suicide."

But after all, the extreme view of neither side is the correct view. We all know there are careless and reckless drivers. We know also there are careless and reckless pedestrians. Still, the existence of both is hardly excuse for either, nor for the toll which the automobile takes. The fact that the man on foot often walks where he is not looking, that he crosses the street when the light is against him, that women shoppers prefer to take their chances in the middle of busy blocks instead of at the comparative safety of the protected crossing does not excuse the driver of a car from exercising all the precautions incumbent upon him because his machine is the agent of death. The pedestrian can not wreck a car, the car can always wreck a pedestrian.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Skillful entertainment managers feel they must keep their affairs in the public eye all the time. Clever press agents are all the time working to have their star performers do something that will bring them into notice. They don't expect to attract patronage, unless people are talking about these performers. If the public forgets about such a personage, his or her patronage at the ticket offices falls off.

It is the same in business. It has to keep in the public eye, or take an inferior position. If people are talking about a store and saying favorable things about it, its business grows. And they will talk about any business that advertises consistently, as such offerings are as interesting as anything else in the newspaper.

A Stockholm dispatch tells of parties leaving there now for Lapland, for the skiing. People who follow the winter around simply baffle us.

If things have got along to a point where the right of way is in dispute, the worst has happened.

It was someone in the back seat, Sunday, who remarked that the detour sign on an arterial highway was a touriquet.

Crime Prevention Is Given Consideration the new system, every new prisoner upon admission is placed in a cell block for one month, where he is visited daily by various individuals, including the physician, the social worker, the warden himself, the psychiatrist and others, all members of a classification committee. The prisoner, in the course of a month is classified and then placed in some type of training that suits him. This type of work is absolutely necessary that we have trained personnel, including not only the doctors, but the prison guards and others as well.

"Guards and prison help must not longer be selected upon their ability to read and write or whether they are a Republican or a Democrat.

"We have a parole system in Pennsylvania but no system now of training our parole officers. When the State politics recently changed, all state parole officers were changed and the system was badly crippled and must be rebuilt.

"Fortunately for Bucks county and her people, you have fine parole officers who know what it is all about.

"A recently completed study showed that in Pennsylvania we spend six times as much on institutional care as we do on probation care. In other words last year our State spent $250,000 on probational care and $2,500,000 on institutional expenses.

"Crime prevention cannot be thought of as being up to any one particular agency. To be successful all agencies must co-operate, and the importance of trained personnel is the basis of the whole program.

George R. Boettinger, executive secretary of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania that was organized 24 years ago, complimented the Bucks county members and particularly Mrs. Thomas Ross, of Doylestown, secretary of the conference, who was largely responsible for its success. Mr. Boettinger was introduced by District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn, of Doylestown, presiding officer.

Dr. Frank Lehman Addresses Group at Welfare Meeting

ployment, if for one reason or another they have lost their employment, there has come a great increase in the number of persons who must be listed under the caption of "unemployable" and they are looking to other agencies for food, shelter and the like, also medical care. Many of these people have not yet reached the old age pension time or are too far down the waiting list.

Many are border-line cases—not entirely past useful occupations but past the desirable age. They are mostly respectable family people whose small savings have been wiped out. It does not seem right that these people should be forced to seek admission to institutions even though there were institutions enough to care for them. This group has become so large that the medical profession feels that some definite scheme should be evolved for their care.

"Aside from the problem of recompense for the medical care of these people, we are intensely interested in the problem of their economic stability. A great deal has been said and is being said of the number of people who are unable to secure medical attention. We are not in a position to speak of this from personal knowledge in large centers of population, but we do know that in communities such as ours this number certainly is exceedingly small.

"We are convinced from study, and reading and statistics of the morbidity among workers and the mortality rate among all classes, that American medical service is the peer of any in the world and that it is constantly improving. It has been our personal observation that the greatest handicap in the health problem is not medical service per se, but the lack of an assured income with which to meet adequately the necessities of proper living.

In the lower income class as well as among the unemployable combined with a lamentable ignorance as to the proper use of available funds."

Dr. J. Fred Wagner's paper on "The Medical Problem of the Unemployable," read at the afternoon conference, was one of the outstanding highlights of the day.

His paper included an outline and plan advocated by the Bucks County Medical Society whereby the County Commissioners, the Poor Board, the physicians, the dentists, nurses, druggists and other interested groups will gather in conference and discuss various phases of the problem.

Dr. Wagner said that naturally the County Commissioners would arrange the budget, the Poor Boards in co-operation with the Red Cross, the nurses and any local agency interested in supplying information to determine the needs of the individual case. The family physician in close co-operation with the County Medical Society would determine the type of medical care necessary and supervise its appropriate application.

Dr. James J. Waygood, director of Rosemeath Farms and a director of the neuropsychiatric clinic at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children, Philadelphia, spoke on "Mental Health in the School and Home," at the afternoon session.

Dr. Waygood said that mental health depends entirely on training in the home and in school. Proper training, he said, is direction and guidance rather than discipline and demands. He said that the pre-school age is the most important. Parents, he said, need a more thorough understanding of child needs. He said also that a child can be held too closely to the mother.

The mother's duty, Dr. Waygood said, is to introduce the child to other members of the family. The most important part of his work is to prepare the child for the next step forward, and dealing with children who fail to be accepted by a group.

"One type of the unaccepted child is the one who draws away from the group and becomes a lonely child, while the other is the 'bully' who always wants to fight and who becomes the delinquent and truant.

"The question of studying the child out is up to the parents and up to the school authorities."

St. Ann's Continues To Set Twilight Pace

from the start tied the count in the fifth. Sammy Ross reached base on an error by Tosti. Dorsey singled to right. Darrah laid down a bunt and caught the St. Ann's team flat-footed. He was given a hit, loading the sacks. Bragg landed on a Narci pitch and whaled it towards left but Whyno stuck up his gloved hand and made a sparkling catch. But in trying for a double-play, he threw wild to third to score Ross. Dorsey counted when Davis sacrificed along the first base line. Davis split his thumb while bunting. Spencer ended the goings by breezing.

Ray Pico led the St. Ann's batters with a triple and two singles. For the colored boys, Dorsey had three consecutive hits.

BARBER AND DETTON ON WRESTLING CARD

TRENTON, May 13.—Two outstanding challengers for the heavyweight title will tangle tonight at the Arena and the loser will cease to be an outstanding challenger. One of them Hank Barber, is the flashy Dartmouth Hebrew, and the other, Dean Detton springs from a Mormon family, living in Salt Lake City.

Tonight's wrestling card is sponsored by the American Legion, Trenton Post 93, and indigent members will profit from the proceeds.

While neither Detton or Barber is a champion yet, many mat experts predict in the not very distant future, the crown will repose on the brow of either one.

Additional interest in this bout, is in the feud between the men. They clashed at the Philadelphia Arena some months ago, and Detton was declared the victor on a technicality. Hank has been brimful of vengeance since this mark on his record and has been angling for a return match ever since. Detton would not listen to him, but when Matchmaker Johnny Ipp signed him up to meet the best opponent that he could secure, Dean had no choice but to accept Barber when Ipp informed him that he had the Hebrew signed.

They clash over the best two fall out of three route, 90 minute time limit and the bout figures to be the best mixture of scientific and rough-house grappling seen here in some time.

An unusual semi-windup has also been carded for the Legion show. Joe Cox, Ohio Giant-killer, who has amassed an imposing record here, including a draw with Chief Little Wolf, faces the foremost Italian wrestler, Gino Garibaldi. This bout would be a wind-up anywhere.

Fred "Rubberlegs" Grubmeier, elongated hook-scissors expert, faces rough Andy Meixner, Texas cowboy, and Charley Strack, Olympic champion, tangles with Joe Tonti, speedy Italian.

The first bout will start at 8.45.

TRIBUTE TO MOTHER

Who loves us when a baby small?

Who to raise us gives her all?

Who does guide us lest we fall?

Mother.

Who always makes the morning gruel?

Who always sees us off to school?

Who upholds the Golden Rule?

Mother.

Who aids us when we're ill?

Who possesses a nurse's skill?

Who always tries to do God's will?

Mother.

Who still loves us when a man?

Who helps us to do the things we plan?

Who gives us all the praise she can?

Mother.

Who worries when we've gone astray?

Who for us to do right, does often pray?

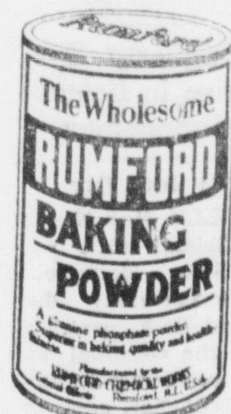

Who should we love, honor and obey?

Mother.

TEN BOUTS FULL OF ACTION ARE CARDED FOR TONIGHT'S SHOW AT THE CROYDON ARENA, SAYS MATCHMAKER

Ten bouts full of action will be dished out to the sport fans tonight at the Croydon Arena, when Matchmaker Mickey Gordon will show the pick of Magistrate "Eddie" Holland's club to battle the best of the Daggett Club in a real old-time slugging feast. The club representing Magistrate Eddie Holland, Philadelphia, are a bunch of real fisticuffs who have learned their battling in and around the neighborhood of those famous clubs known as the Bloody Pit, the Cambria A. C., the palace of hard knocks, and in meeting their territorial rival, the Daggett A. C., a great card of fighting will surely be seen when they come together.

Chester Castor, a local lad, who is representing the Daggett Club in tonight's battle, will meet George Kinslow, the Nativty C. C. titleholder in the 112-pound class.

Tommy Bladen, the Holland Ace in the 160-pound class, will meet a tarrar in Larry Palma, the Nativty C. C. battler. Bladen is a furious two-fisted fighter who is always crowding in and does not give his opponent a second's rest. Palma has a large following and is a boy who the fans love to see in action. Both boys are hard hitters and excel in infighting, and throw caution to the wind to give the spectators a real action fight.

Billy Maher, Mason A. C. ace, who has never failed to give the fans their money's worth whenever he appears, will meet Al Pierce, of Wharton Centre. Maher, a great crowd pleaser, has a large following around this locality, and will be at his best tonight, as he has been promised a bout with the Golden Glove champion, Johnny Morgan, if he wins next week. Pierce can always be depended upon to put up a whale of a battle, and he will have a lot to say who will meet the champion next week.

Leonard Dever, the Third Ward champion, who is fast rising to the front in his class, and showing great promise in his fights, will meet Jimmy Lefferts, of the Daggett Club. Both these lads are great little showmen and will put up a great battle. Dever is the harder hitter of the two, but Leffert makes this up by his boring-in style of milling.

Frank Malone, another Holland battler, will cross with Croydon's pride, Joe Meyers. Malone, who is a fast and clever lad, will have his work cut out for him and Meyers, if he is in shape, will have no trouble in outpointing him. Tony DeAngelo of the Daggett Club will meet another lad from Croydon, Mike Sottun. Sottun is the one who at a minute's notice put up such a whale of a battle with George Shull, the Burlington Pride, a short time ago, and copped the decision.

George Bonerberg, Holland A. C., will meet a tough lad in Jimmy "Dumpty" Nocita, of Bristol, in another bout. These little lads are wild-swinging boys who throw punches from all angles and will thrill the crowd with their milling.

Jack Maquire, Holland Club, and Leo Neary, of the Kensington Club, will face each other, while the curtain raiser will bring together Tommy Francis, who made such a great hit at one of the local clubs, against Tommy Regan, of the Kensington Club.

Fight fans who have witnessed fights in Philadelphia and vicinity, will remember Al Rowe, a former great in the lightweight class. Rowe has fought many top-notchers in his class; among the standouts are Ad Wolgast, Benny Leonard, Johnny Dundee, Johnny Kilbane, George Chaney, that greater knocker-out, Benny Bass, and many others. Rowe is personally supervising the training and coaching of the Eddie Holland Club, and will act as second for his boys at tonight's fights.

BRISTOL HIGH WINS FROM MORRISVILLE BY SHUTOUT ROUTE

Johnnie Dick, an Ex-Infielder, Pitches a Four-Hit Shut-Out Game

FINAL SCORE IS 5 TO 0

Coach Dougherty Springs A Surprise in Selecting Moundsman

By Jack Orr

MORRISVILLE, May 13—Coach Bill Dougherty, Bristol High mastermind, outguessed John Hoffman, Bulldog mentor, here yesterday when "Doc" chose Johnnie Dick, rangy shortstop, to twirl for the Cardinal and Gray. Morrisville, expecting to face southpaw Billie Gallagher, received quite a jolt when Dick, a right hander, strode to the mound and was given a further surprise when the ex-infielder pitched a four hit shut-out, blanking Morrisville's revamped nine, 5-0.

The Bulldogs had been practicing all week against the slants of porters and according to the followers of the Blue and Gold were about ripe to blast Gallagher to an early shower. Dougherty crossed the up-river club, however, and sent Dick to face them.

Johnnie pitched fine ball, fanning four while walking a pair. Three errors behind the Bristol twirler kept him in hot water but Dick came through in fine style leaving eight Morrisville men stranded.

Dick's opponent was Bob Dobuski, ex-Blue and Gold backstop. Dobuski allowed but 2 earned runs and went the route for the Bulldogs. Bob walked one and fanned five. A pair of double plays helped the up-river chucker in the pinches.

The Bunnies started off on the right foot by tallying one in the first. Sagolla reached first via Kane's error.

Sag stole second on the first pitch. Pete DeLuca drove the Bristol third sacker across with a single to right, but Gallagher bunted a double play ball to end the rally.

Two more unearned runs came in the third. With one down, Dick beat a hit to shortstop. John stole second. Kane kicked DeLuca's ground ball and the Bristol pitcher scored. This would have been the third Bristol out of the stanza. Gallagher drove DeLuca across with his long double to left.

The Bunnies added one in the sixth and seventh frames. VanZant's double and Hughes' base hit accounted for the sixth inning run while DeLuca and Gallagher collaborated to count for the last tally.

The one Bulldog uprising came in the sixth frame. With two down and Adams on first via a fielder's choice, Jimmy Pidcock singled to right and "Ape" Pidcock was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Harry Hughes, basketball guard, with a chance to break up the ball game went down swinging.

Pete DeLuca, Billie Gallagher and Jesse VanZant led the visiting hitters with two bingles while Frank Wilnot led the homers with two for three.

The Bristol club finish their scheduled Lower Bucks County League games on Friday when they combat the league trailing Fallsington nine at Falls. A victory on Friday will insure the Bunnies of at least a tie in the league standings.
